WHOO HOO! VOLUNTEER STATE BANK TO GIVE OUT FREE DONUTS IN SPRINGFIELD

VSB celebrates sneak preview of 'The Simpsons Movie' Homer style.

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn. July 20, 2007 – “Mmmmmmm, donuts.” What better way to mark the premier of “The Simpsons Movie” than to have Homer’s favorite snack? Volunteer State Bank and Krispy Kreme are giving away enough free donuts on Thursday, July 26 to make any fan of “The Simpsons” yell “Whoo hoo!”

Beginning at 8:30 a.m. in the lobby of the Springfield branch, located at 1310 Memorial Blvd., fans can stop by all day and grab a tasty treat, provided Homer doesn’t eat them all first. (D’oh).

Springfield, Tenn. will be one of about a dozen Springfields in the country to get a sneak preview of “The Simpsons Movie” the day before it opens nationwide. The Springfield/Robertson County Chamber of Commerce, at 100 5th Ave. West, is giving away free tickets to the sneak preview, which will be at the Springfield Cinema, 718 South Main Street.

“When we first got the idea, people were very excited,” said Kris Fisher, administrator of Volunteer State Bank’s Springfield office. “Everyone started quoting lines and gags from their favorite episodes. We’re all fans and we wanted to share that with Springfield.”
